SEMPER EADEM?: Who would want their town to stay, “always the same”? That is what Semper Eadem means. I am responding to the Oct. 19 letter about the group trying to make a positive change in our town. No wonder things stay “always the same”! Whenever anyone tries to do anything to improve the quality of life for all the citizens in Crisfield, people are quick to try and tear them down because it was not their idea. I believe everyone appreciates the new streets and the wind turbine and the planters that the writer said have made our town better, but those things have not brought one new job, they are projects, disjointed and not part of any overall plan for improvement. God says “people perish for lack of vision”....what is wrong with having a vision and a plan? For all the wonderful groups that the writer named, I don't see anyone else with a plan to bring jobs and opportunity here. I understand the writer being retired and moving here, not wanting any change, but what about those of us who are not retired and who have children that need opportunity and a chance to make a decent living and would like a little recreation every now and then? We would like to have a job we could retire from and afford to buy a house in the country, verses having a forced retirement because there are no jobs. I challenge anyone who believes that Crisfield is doing just fine the way it is to stop by the Point of Need ministry when they are helping our citizens make ends meet and see the long lines of people in need and if you don't know what I am talking about that proves you are really out of touch! The citizens of Crisfield need help, but not just a handout, an opportunity! People who don't want change are usually doing okay and have a decent job or have already had their career opportunity, PLEASE let the rest of us have a chance! Oh, and before you call someone “clueless” you should get a clue yourself, even I know that “Greater Crisfield” doesn't have anything to do with lesser or more, it simply means Crisfield and the surrounding areas outside the city limits, like Lawsonia, Marion, etc. Sign me a supporter of the Greater Crisfield Action Coalition.

SPEED LIMIT: Why go through all the trouble of lowering the speed limit on the strip, including all the new signs, if it is not being enforced? People are still driving 20 miles per hour over the speed limit out there like they did when the speed limit was higher. Why aren't any of the three police agencies with jurisdiction here not out there giving out speeding tickets? With all the speeders on the road, you are talking about a substantial revenue stream, which, the last time I checked, the city could use. — Note, this revenue however does not go to city coffers.

THANKS RUSSIA: If Russia is really behind the Wikileaks emails then kudos for confirming how dishonest our politicians really are.
